The reality. Since 1980, over 1,181 Native women and girls in Canada have been reported missing or have been murdered. While there isn't a comprehensive estimate, there are many factors that contribute to the disproportionate number of Indigenous women who are missing and murdered in the United States.

Indigenous women have incurred devastating levels of violence in the United States.

Tulalip Tribes Vision
 We gathered at Tulalip are one people.
 We govern ourselves.
 We will arrive at a time when each and every person has become most capable.
 Together we create a healthy and culturally vibrant community

Tulalip Tribes Mission
 We make available training, teaching and advice, both spiritual and practical.

Tulalip Tribes Values

1. We respect the community of our elders past and present, and pay attention to their good words.
2. We uphold and follow the teachings that come from our ancestors.
3. It is valued work to uphold and serve our people.
4. We work hard and always do our best.
5. We show respect to every individual.
6. We strengthen our people so that they may walk a good walk.
7. We do not gossip, we speak the truth.

According to the US Department of Justice, nearly half of all Native American women have been raped, beaten or stalked by an intimate partner; one in three will be raped in their lifetime; and on some reservations, women are murdered at a rate 10 times higher than the national average. But many factors complicate the reporting and recording of these numbers, including fear, stigma, legal barriers, racism, sexism, and the perpetuation of Native women as sexual objects in mainstream media.

The exhibit. On Friday, January 8, the Hibulb Cultural Center and Natural History Preserve debuted the travelling earring exhibition, Sing Our Rivers Red, created by Diné (Navajo) and Chicana artist Nanibah “Nani” Chacon. The exhibition uses 1,181 single-sided earrings to represent the Indigenous women reported murdered and missing in both Canada and the United States. Nani’s intention is to use the power of this art piece to raise awareness about this epidemic that occurs in the United States and all across Turtle Island. Over 3,406 earring were donated from over 400 people, organizations, groups, and entities from six provinces in Canada and 45 states in the U.S.

Former Board of Director, Deborah Parker, who had an immense role in the 2013 Violence Against Women Act (VAWA) reauthorization, was present to witness the exhibit debut and speak on its importance.

“I thank everyone here for honoring the work that’s been going on, for honoring all the missing and murdered Indigenous women who are represented by these earrings. I know for some of us this is a difficult issue to even talk about,” said Parker. “When we talk about policy, protecting, and justice for missing and murdered Indigenous women there’s not always the words that can be said to fight on behalf of those who cannot speak. I know this is such a somber, such a hard issue to think about, but it’s so important for us to discuss. So I really want to honor each and every one of you who are here tonight because you are part of the story, you are part of the prayers, and I’m hoping and praying you are part of the solution.

“This exhibit is a good way to open up that dialogue and discuss the issues represented in this art and those earrings. We no longer have to remain silent. I strongly believe when we speak of the missing and murdered Indigenous women that we honor them on the other side, we honor their name and their presence. They deserve to be honored and to be talked about in a way that will bring justice because no one deserves to go missing from their families, no one deserves to be murdered. Hopefully, we leave this exhibit feeling motivated to stand up and to speak out for justice.”

Before closing the evening’s debut, several strong and motivated Tulalip women donated earrings and shared words of their importance. The earrings will join the many others that represent and speak for those who can’t speak for themselves.

Board of Director, Theresa Sheldon, was one of those who donated earrings to the exhibit. “Planting those seeds of change right now is just the beginning. Making it a regular conversation with people, finding where it is that you are comfortable to discuss these issues, and learning how to further the conversation helps victims become survivors,” explained Sheldon. “I truly thank you all for answering the call and being here. Please share what you witnessed tonight and carry on the words that were shared and know that you can make a difference. By sharing these messages and breaking the cycle of silence you have that ability to provide opportunities for healing.”

The mission. The Sing Our Rivers Red exhibition and events aim to bring awareness to the epidemic of missing and murdered Indigenous women and colonial-gender based violence in the United States and Canada. The events strive to raise consciousness, unite ideas and demand action for Indigenous women and girls who have been murdered or gone missing, raped, and assaulted, and who have not received the proper attention and justice.

Sing Our Rivers Red stands in solidarity and with collaborative spirit to support the efforts built in Canada and to highlight the need for awareness and action to address colonial gender violence in the United States. The events recognize that each of us has a voice to not only speak out about the injustices against our sisters, but also use the strength of those voices to sing for our healing. Water is the source of life and so are women. We are connecting our support through the land and waters across the border: we need to “Sing Our Rivers Red” to remember the missing and murdered and those who are metaphorically drowning in injustices.

Sing Our Rivers Red will be on display at the Hibulb Cultural Center through the end of the month. For hours and directions, please visit HibulbCulturalCenter.org

Missing. Oil on canvas. From the artist, "I created this piece to honor the lives and memory of unexplained murders and missing Indigenous women of North America. The images I chose places a woman amongst a landscape and butterflies. The interaction of the woman and the butterflies has little to do with one another in the physical sense; instead, I combine the elements in this painting in an overlapping manner to create cohesion between three violated subjects. The butterflies are a symbol for Indigenous women, which is why they are seen moving through and within the woman. The monarch butterfly has a migratory pattern that spans North America. In recent documentation, the monarch butterfly is also unexplainably dying / missing. In this piece, I wanted to depict the connection between land and women – I see that we are mistreating and killing both. I believe that because there is no respect for the land, there is no respect for women. I believe when one stops, the other will too."

New Elders Committee members elected

On Monday, January 11, Tulalip elders came together to cast their votes and enjoy a catered lunch in the Orca Ballroom of the Tulalip Resort Casino. Votes were cast to determine who the three open spots on the Elders Committee would go to.

Current committee members Dawn Simpson and Gary Baker were joined by newly elected members Valda Gobin, Lily Ann "Cookie" Robinson, and Delmar Jones.

Following the election, there was a hand-vote to determine who would be Chairman, Vice-Chair, and Secretary. It was decided that Valda Gobin is the new Chairman, Gary Baker is Vice-Chair, and Dawn Simpson is the new Secretary.

Lady Hawks move to 11-0 after lopsided victory

Article/photos by Micheal Rios

The Lady Hawks (10-0) made short work of the Orcas Christian Saints (1-4) in a home game played on Monday, January 11. Coming into the game, the Lady Hawks were riding a 10 game win streak and remained unbeaten, while the Saints were just hoping they'd have five girls to play. Due to injuries the Saints only dressed five girls, but one had so much tape around a sprained ankle it looked like a cast.

From the opening moments of the game observers could tell it was only a matter of how much the Lady Hawks would win by. The Saints only had one player who could handle the ball and find some clean shots against the Lady Hawks stingy defense. Meanwhile, the home team fielded five starters who were all able to find quality shots and, a lot of time, wide open looks after a couple quick dribbles.

The Lady Hawks led 19-1 after the 1st quarter and pushed that lead to 35-6 at halftime. If that's not dominant enough, the Lady Hawks starters went on a 20-0 run to open the 3rd quarter that hardly took more than five minutes of game time. Up 55-6, with the result clearly not in doubt, coach Bubba Fryberg took the starters out for the remainder of the game. In the end, 9 out of 10 Lady Hawks' players scored in the game as they earned their eleventh win of the season, 63-10.

Adiya Jones finished with a game high 22points, while Aliya Jones scored 15points, and Keryn Parks chipped in 10points.

On their road to perfection, the Lady Hawks have beaten teams by an average margin of 31 points per game and have only won a single game by less than 15 points, which was a five point victory over Neah Bay on December 21.

The Lady Hawks next home game is Friday, January 22, when they host their rivals, the Lummi Blackhawks.

Hawks offense turns stagnant in 33-65 loss

Article/photos by Micheal Rios

The Tulalip Heritage basketball team (5-5) hosted the Saints from Orcas Christian (6-0) at Francy J. Sheldon gymnasium on Monday, January 11. After the 1-5 start to the season, the Hawks had returned to their winning ways and were on a 4-game win streak that propelled them into 2nd place in their Northwest 1B league. The only team above them in the standings? The undefeated Orcas Christian team.

These teams previously played on December 10. It was a highly contested match that saw the Hawks lose a late lead as the referees took over the game and sent Orcas to the free throw line time and time again. The Hawks would lose the game 52-61.

Coming into the rematch the Hawks were confident they would avenge their previous loss and continue their win streak. Orcas Christian had other plans however. The 1st quarter yielded the worst offense output from the Hawks all season, just 5 points, as they trailed 5-12 going into the 2nd quarter. Whether it was due to the 2-3 zone Orcas applied that clogged the paint and forced the Hawks to keep the ball on the perimeter, or the Hawks missing close, albeit contested, shots at the rim, the Hawks just were unable to get into a groove offensively.

In the 2nd quarter, senior forward Willy Enick did away with the game plan and found his own offense through isolation plays and some timely shooting. Willy scored 8 points in the quarter and had 10 of the team's 17 points at halftime.

Trailing 17-27 entering the 3rd quarter, the Hawks looked to rebound quickly by putting more defense pressure on the Orcas points guard, Michael Harris. Unfortunately, that game plan didn't come to fruition as Harris repeatedly was able to cut through the Hawks defense and either score a layup or find an open teammate for a quality look from 3-point territory. The Hawks would be outscored 6-27 in the quarter, making the score 23-54 going into the final quarter.

The Hawks would go on to lose the game 33-67, snapping their win streak. The 33 points was the lowest offensive output on the season. Willy led all Hawks scorers with 17 points.

Now, with a 5-6 record, the Hawks remain in 2nd place in their league but know they have work to do. They have to clean up the offense and defense if they want to have a good showing at the District Tournament next month, where they'll likely face this same Orcas Christian team who has beaten them twice now.

The Hawks next home game is Friday, January 22 vs. the Lummi Blackhawks.

Love and Logic

By Kim H. Newland

There is something liberating about a shiny new year. The turning of the calendar page offers a wonderful opportunity to introduce positive change and a chance to consider a fresh approach to life and relationships.

If your New Year's resolutions include adopting a different style for dealing with your children, consider signing up for "Life and Logic" a six-week parenting program offered through Tulalip Behavioral Health and Family Services. Facilitated by Licensed Mental Health Counselor, Kay Feather, participants will learn practical and common-sense tips for dealing with children as young as 9-months-old.

While most of the things we interact with each day come with an owner's manual such as cellular telephones, weed whackers and coffee pots, parents aren't issued "how to operate" paperwork when they bring an infant home from the hospital. Perhaps it is because each child is unique and they're a lot tougher to wrangle than setting up a multi-function printer or assembling furniture from IKEA with a tiny hex tool.

Created by the father and son team of Jim and Charles Fay, Ph.D, with contributions from Dr. Foster W. Cline, the Love and Logic approach encourages participants to "sit back, giggle at the stories and examples, and give themselves permission to have fun."

The program is broken down into six lessons:

- Lesson one: One liners: putting an end to back talking and begging.

- Lesson two: Empathy: teaching responsibility without losing their love.
- Lesson three: Setting limits without waging war.
- Lesson four: Avoiding power struggles.
- Lesson five: Guiding kids to own and solve their problems.
- Lesson six: Chores: teaching kids to complete chores without reminders and without pay.

Although it's not a substitute for professional help, Kay Feather notes, "it is a whole new way to think about parenting".

Classes are open and free of charge to Tulalip Tribal members, their spouses and other natives. The next class is set to begin Feb. 18 and will take place from 9 to 11 a.m. each Thursday for six weeks. Class size is limited and registration is required. Contact Kay Feather at 360-716-4311 for further information.

Tribal court system

To our tribal membership, 11/25/2015

I am writing in regards to our tribal court system. My name is Joanne G. Fryberg (Sunshine) and my enrollment number is T0257. On August 20, 2015 my mother Mary Alice Joseph Fryberg passed away. I was sitting in Snohomish County Jail at the time. I was not notified of my mothers passing until September 6 when I received a letter from my fiancé, Richard Lee Henry, stating, "sorry about your mamma, baby. Wish I could have been there for you." So members of our community, how would you like to have found out about your mother's death in this matter? Consider how I must be feeling, still sitting in jail not able to deal with my mother's death. All I want is for the court to give proper notification to tribal inmates when a family member is passing, and arrange TRO or transportation to the funeral in the event that a family member passes or is ready to pass.

I never even was able to say goodbye to my mom. The death of my mother has hindered my mental state. I do not believe that she is gone. My hope is that she's traveling to a pow-wow or at church, or even at the casino, something that she loved to do. Until I can get out of jail and visit the gravesite, I hold no closure on this matter. Deep down I know she's gone but I can't believe it cause I did not see her put in the ground. I feel like the court just left me here to suffer my mothers' loss and didn't even care. I know that they knew and some people from court were even at my mom's funeral.

I've done 8 months in jail this year alone and my release date is 2-29-16. By the time this is over with I will have done 10 months in jail and treatment and the courts still tell me I have two and a half years hanging over my head and two years probation, so when does it stop? Haven't I done enough time?

When my dad was alive I always went to court, check-in, and never jumped bail because I had a member of my family that I loved and respected and what he thought mattered to me. There's only two other people in this world that I respect like that and it's Dean Fryberg Sr. and Gerald Fryberg Sr. (my uncles). I know I that if one of these elders came to court for me I would do what I was supposed to, therefore I know I wouldn't go back to jail. I know I can do this because the things I've had to endure have only made me stronger.

I sat here for 120 days while court promised me a bed date. And I waited just to be released September 7, 2015 with the knowledge of my mothers death. I made it to my mental health appointment that was court ordered despite everything I had been though and then I relapsed. So I'm here to tell you that I am trying to help myself and that I am also currently being sent to treatment. Not by my tribe but through Evergreen Manor who also managed to get the State to pay for my treatment and my mental health. So here I am getting help from the white man cause my own tribe just wants to leave me in jail. I've never felt more alone in my community, fighting for my rights just to get left in jail anyway. I don't have family members to be my guardian angel or even someone who can come to court and say that they can see me trying.

All I want is to do my time and close my case so I will not have anything hanging over my head. I'd like to have a fresh start when I get out of jail and not have to worry about the courts setting me up to fail with daily check-ins and I'm going to be so busy with appointments and trying to stay sober. I believe that my tribe owes me at least this much after all the pain and suffering I have endured these past few months. I am also currently back on my medications which were also court ordered to help prevent relapse.

Thank you very much for listening to my grievances have hindered me this year.

Sincerely yours,
Joanne G. Fryberg T0257
Sunshine Ya-Nil-tsa

Thank you, everyone

We would like to say "Thank you" to everyone that came to my sister, Muffy Ordonia services to share their support and prayers with us. Including those who took the time to come and see her during her last few months. It was very uplifting to see all that Loved my sister Muffy and the hearts she has touched. Thank you to those from Lummi that traveled to be with the family as I know she was a big part of the Lummi community as well.

Thank you to everyone that brought meals and shared memories with the family at her place. Thank you to her nieces: SeQuiessa, Budda, Sissy, and the numerous nephews and great nephews as well as her extended nieces and nephews for all your help. Many great memories in our hearts with our sister/auntie. She is smiling with all our loved ones as she has completed her journey on to Paradise.
