Transitional units near completion

By Micheal Rios

In early May, tribal council officially broke ground on what was dubbed ‘emergency transitional living units. In the process they began a long requested service that will benefit Tulalip’s membership. It’s been two months since that ground breaking and the first of several planned sites intended to prevent homelessness is nearing completion.

Located across the street from Tulalip Bay fire department, the inaugural site consists of five units that will be fully furnished when complete. Essential amenities include a bath tub with shower, kitchenette and washer and dryer. The living space is compact (240 square feet) and meant for emergency purposes and short term living only.

“These transition units will be a blessing for our community,” stated Chief Operating Officer Wendy Fryberg. “We recognize that our people sometimes have transition requirements, and homelessness should not be a concern for our members who have find themselves in such challenging circumstances.

“We anticipate as soon as these units are complete we will find a location to build more,” she added. “These units are designed to assist tribal members to live independently on a short-term basis while they create relationships with various programs. Those programs will become their stepping stone, providing resources needed for long-term solutions in the prevention of homelessness.”

“These transitional units will provide a foundation for tribal members to build upon and carry on in a good way. We pray this will be a success for individuals and families who find themselves in such circumstances.”

In addition to providing a sense of stability for families who will use the transitional units as a stepping stone to independent living, each unit will provide crucial comforts like water and sewer utilities, electricity, and the ability to have cable or a Wi-Fi connection.

Rent will be $300 per month to cover the water, sewer and Public Utility District (PUD) costs. There will be more information coming out about the policy, eligibility, and application process for Tulalip membership interested in temporarily residing in one of these transitional units.

By contrast, the Tulalip Tribes homeless shelter utilizes shared utilities, including a shared kitchen area. Many of the region’s tiny home villages that have become more and more common also lack running water and cooking facilities.

“This is our first project of this type. Yes, we have the homeless shelter, but these units have their own bathroom and kitchenette,” explained Vice-Chairman Glen Gobin. “These transitional units will provide a foundation for tribal members to build upon and carry on in a good way. We pray this will be a success for individuals and families who find themselves in such circumstances. This project is intended to assist and help them build a good positive foundation and move forward in that good way.”

Tulalip’s committed construction team has been diligently putting in the necessary work for what is sure to be a game changer in our community. During the recent record-breaking heat wave, construction superintendent Bob Lapham was on-site for each unit’s roof completion. According to Bob the builder, his crew is well coordinated and excited to be working on such a meaningful project. For such a compact size, the units have a large bathroom setup and living quarters with all the necessities, plus they’ll be nice took at both inside and out, he said.

C.O.O. Wendy Fryberg wants the community to know these initial transitional units are on schedule and expected to be complete by July 31st. The procedures and application process will be announced soon. Stay tuned.

Roy Robinson Subaru donates $16,200 to Tulalip Foundation

By Calvin Valdillez

“We’ve been in Tulalip and the Marysville area for almost 50 years now,” said Robb McCalm- on, Roy Robinson Subaru General Manager. “We have a very good relationship with the Tribe and it’s important for us to give back to our community. They’re the reason why we’re here and why we get to stay here.”

A giant check amounting in $16,200 was presented to the Tulalip Foundation on a warm summer afternoon in late June. Each winter, Subaru dealerships around the country take part in a holiday seasonal event known as Share the Love. A donation is made each time a vehicle is sold during the two-month promotion. The buyer selects where they would like the donation to go, either the National Park Foundation, the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA), Meals on Wheels, the Make-A-Wish Foundation or a local hometown charity handpicked by the respective dealership. To date, the Share the Love event has raised over $200 million for the four foundations and made donations to over 1,440 hometown charities, including the Tulalip Foundation.

“This is our third year being the hometown charity for Roy Robinson,” exclaimed Tulalip Foundation Executive Director, Nicole Sieminski. “They were nice enough to choose us and they could’ve chose anyone.”

The donation is dispersed in $5,000 increments through grants to help fund local programs and community events. Nicole explained that after Roy Robinson’s first donation in 2018, the Share the Love event contributed to the Tulalip Tribe’s Natural Resources summertime youth Mountain and Fish camps, the suicide prevention Warrior Walk held at Tulalip, The Tulalip Restoration Program’s Planting project, and Leah’s Dream Foundation’s Christmas program. And thanks to the 2019 Share the Love donation, two grants were awarded, one to the bedah?chelh Sponsor-A-Child Christmas event and the other to the Healing to Wellness Court’s incentive program.

Rochelle Lubbers, the Tulalip Foundation’s Secretary, expressed excitement during the check presentation, stating that this year's donation will result in at least three $5,000 'mini-grants'. The Tulalip Foundation is a non-profit organization dedicated to empowering the wellbeing of the Tulalip reservation and the surrounding communities. Since 2007, the Foundation has worked with numerous programs to create a brighter future for the Tribe, founded on three important values: education, justice and culture.

Over the years, the Tulalip Foundation has awarded several grants to a number of programs based on those three values including the Betty J. Taylor Early Learning Academy and the Tulalip TERO Vocational Training Center for education; the Tulalip Office of Civil Legal Aid (TOCLA), the Healing to Wellness Court and the Criminal Conflict Counsel program for justice; and the Hibulb Cultural Center for culture. The Foundation also hosts a number of their own fundraising events throughout each year such as the Hibulb Cultural Center Salmon Bake and the Tulalip Foundation Giving Tuesday event.

Although the funds from this year's generous donation by the Roy Robinson dealership have yet to be decided, the Tulalip Foundation is excited just thinking about the possibilities the Share the Love event will help support in the near future.

Patti Gobin, the Tulalip Foundation Vice-Chairwoman expressed, "This is such a great thing because the Tulalip Tribes only has so much within their budget to spread throughout the Tribe to meet the community's needs. This helps in areas that mean a lot to our community members, some of them are grassroots and trying to get things started. I think it's a wonderful opportunity for those programs and the Tulalip Foundation is honored to be the vehicle."

USPS to unveil Raven Story Forever Stamp

The U.S. Postal Service will unveil the Raven Story Forever Stamp at the Sealaska Heritage Institute in Juneau, AK.

The stamp was created by Tlingit/Athabaskan artist Rico Worl. The stamp design depicts a raven just as he escapes from his human family and begins to transform back into his bird form. To create the stamp art, Worl used formline, the traditional design style of the Indigenous people of the northern Northwest Coast. The art director is Antonio Alcalá.

Among the cultures of the region, the raven plays an essential role in many traditional tales, including stories about the creation of the world. The stamp is inspired by the traditional story of the raven setting the sun, moon and stars free.

Pre-order the Raven Story stamp at usps.com/stamps

The story behind the stamps will also be featured on the U.S. Postal Service Facebook and Twitter pages, posting at 5 p.m. ET on July 30, 2021. A pictorial postmark of the designated first-day-of-issue city, Juneau, is available at usps.com/shopstamps.

Watch Out For But Don't Confuse With Bees, Wasps and Other Insects!

Asian Giant Hornet

Asian Giant Hornets (AGH) (Vespa mandarinia) have been in the news.

An AGH was recently found in Snohomish County, and last year a nest was found up north. Be alert and please watch for it around your home or in your hunting & gathering areas. The nest was found in a tree but it usually nests in the ground. It is important to identify AGH correctly and not kill bees, wasps, or other insects which may be important for pest control and pollinating!

For ID, see pics below, visit agr.wa.gov/hornets, or contact one of the #'s below.

WARNING - USE EXTREME CAUTION NEAR ASIAN GIANT HORNETS

The stinger of the Asian giant hornet is longer than that of a honey bee and is more dangerous than any local bee or wasp. Typical beekeeping protective clothing is not sufficient to protect you from stings. If you find a colony, do not attempt to remove or eradicate it. Anyone allergic to bee or wasp stings should never approach an Asian giant hornet.

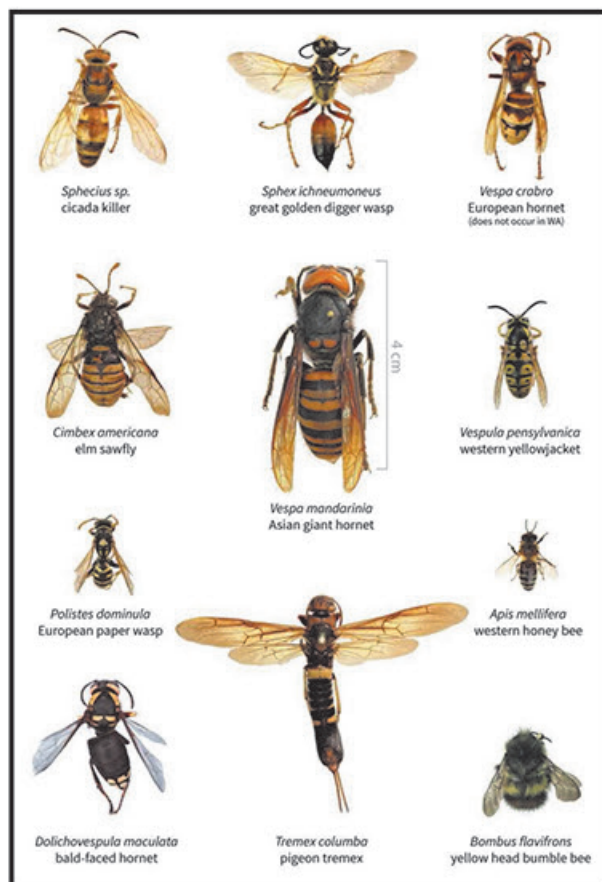

Report sightings to the Washington State Department of Agriculture immediately.

IDENTIFICATION

- * Usually 1.5 - 2 inches in length
- * Large orange head with prominent eyes
- * Black and orange/yellow striped or mostly black with orange/yellow tipped abdomen
- * Forms large colonies
- * Nests in the ground typically

BOTH HAVE ONLY YELLOW ON THE FINAL SEGMENTS OF THE ABDOMEN

AGH Honeybee Hive Attacks

You may not see Asian giant hornets themselves, but you may see the aftermath of an Asian giant hornet attack. These hornets will leave piles of dead bees, most of them headless, outside their beehive, similar to that shown in the photo above (WSDA has not been able to confirm that these are definitely the result of an AGH attack in this photo).

IS IT AN ASIAN GIANT HORNET?

Some local insects have been confused with Asian giant hornets. The insects at left show examples. Visit agr.wa.gov/hornets. If you aren't sure, please report your sighting, especially if you have photos.

PAPER WASP

More slender and smaller overall compared to the Asian giant hornet. They also do not have an orange/yellow head.

BALD FACED HORNET

About an inch long and are mostly black with white stripes and spots.

YELLOW JACKET

Yellow jackets are less than an inch long. They have distinctly yellow faces with a black area near the top of the head.

ELM SAWFLY

The elm sawfly can be nearly as large as the Asian giant hornet. They have a black face and yellow stripes, but they lack a stinger.
